J. N. Powell, Democratic elector-at-large for the Kinth District of Virginia, is scheduled to speak at Madison. Corn cutting is about over in this section and many persons have already begun shucking the earlier crops. The quality is said everywhere to be very fine, with eara from large to very large and well filled. Ears measuring one foot and over are quite common. There is very little moldy or damaged corn anywhere, and it is hoped that this means exemption from the disease that has killed so many valuable horses and cattle throughout this part of Virginia last fall, winter and spring.

at Court of St.

Prince Charles Maximilian Lichnowsky, who has been appointed by the Kaiser to succeed the late Baron Marschall von Bieberstein as ambassader to the court of St. James, spent several menths in this country a few years ago during the course of a trip round the world. He landed at San Francisco, and before sailing from New York for Hamburg had visited most of the principal cities of the United States. He is the head of one of the great houses of the old feudal ariset terracy of Silesia, which takes its name from the village of Lichnow, near Jacgernderf, in Austrian Silesia, which has been in its possession for nearly 500 years, and received its titles of Count of the Hely Roman Empire at the beginning of the sighteenth century, and its princely rank some fifty years later.
